

Corporate Description

Aquattica delivers expert design, engineering, and consulting solutions for commercial, institutional and municipal swimming pools and aquatics facilities.

Aquattica was founded in January 2000 by a national pool equipment sales executive, a mechanical/structural engineer, and a USA Swimming coach. They sought to fuse their unique vantage points in the industry to improve modern pool building practices and deliver superior results to clients.

Today, Aquattica has completed hundreds of projects across the United States. Aquattica seeks to consistently build affordable and expertly designed aquatic facilities that reflect the needs of the client, the whole community, and the sport.

Aquattica is a sought-after subcontractor for architects and developers whose projects require a pool or water park program. The Aquattica team is also regularly consulted by municipalities, Olympic committees and government agencies to assist in the technical review of facilities as they relate to design, programs, operations, and maintenance.

The experts at Aquattica regularly participate in collaborations with architects, engineers, construction managers, planners, and construction companies to develop new products and create new design standards and technical improvements in the ever-evolving pool building industry.
